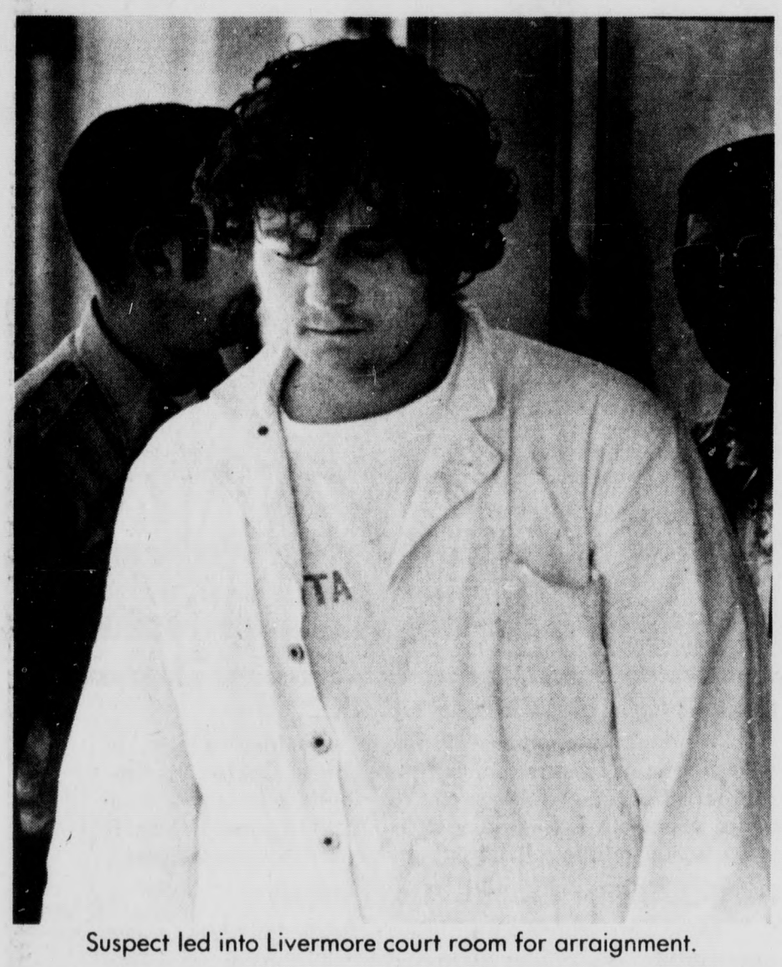
Dublin man charged in murdering family

Braeseke emerges from sheriff's van yesterday.



Suspect led into Livermore court room for arraignment.

Judge Eaton sets bail at $600,000

LIVERMORE —Barry Braeseke of Dublin, accused of murdering his father, mother and grandfather in their Betlen Drive home on Monday, was arraigned in Livermore Municipal Court yesterday on charges that could bring the death penalty if convicted.

The 20 year-old Dublin High School graduate was led into court at 2 p.m. to hear Judge Mark Eaton accuse him of shooting to death his parents, Floyd Wright and Barbara Dee Braeseke, both 41, and his paternal grandfather, John Braeseke, 81, of Illinois.

Young Braeseke phoned the sheriff's department shortly before 1 a.m. Tuesday to report finding the bodies in the family room of their 11418 Betlen Drive home. At that time, he told deputies that he and a 16 year-old companion, David Barker, of 9609 Broadmoor Drive, San Ramon, had driven to visit friends in Hayward and then saw two movies at a local drive-in theater before returning home to find the bodies.

The suspect was brought from his cell in Oakland's County Courthouse jail to Livermore Municipal Court clad in prison white overalls. Braeseke appeared in shock as he was led into the courtroom, his eyes failing to meet even those of his aunt and uncle (Floyd Braesele's brother and sister) who had just arrived from Illinois.

John Braeseke, an attorney from Morton Grove, and Phyllis Repine, a housewife from Godfrey, Ill., watched silently as the young suspect was led into the courtroom.

Judge Eaton asked the suspect to verify his true name and address, and Braeseke answered with a muffled "yes" to both questions.

The charges were then read, while Braeseke stood motionless: Three counts of first degree murder; one court of conspiracy to commit murder to get the family's inheritance; armed during commission of a felony; using firearms in commission of a felony; and under special circumstanes — a multiple murder.

The judge ruled that a private attorney, James Leonard Crew who practices in Hayward, would be appointed at county costs to defend the suspect. He ordered Braeseke to appear today at 11 a.m. in his court to answer those charges against him, or ask for a continuance in the plea setting.

Judge Eaton then set bail at $600,000. Braeseke would have to raise 10 per cent of that figure, or $60,000, to be freed on bond.

The preliminary hearing ended, Braeseke was then placed in a caged van for transportation to the Oakland jail.

District Attorney Harry Murphy later said that the conspiracy and multiple murder charges would bring Braeseke a mandatory death sentence if a jury or judge convicted him on those counts.

Murphy said that as far as he was concerned, there was "no chance of plea bargaining in this case." He added that a judge probably wouldn't accept a guilty plea, since it is a capital offense.

A public defender will be appointed to defend Barker in juvenile court. A spokesman said the private attorney was appointed for Braeseke because two public defenders are not usually assigned to handle two separate clients in the same case.

Suspect called electronic whiz

Sheriff's deputies were very familiar with Barry Braeseke before his father, mother and grandfather were murdered in their Dublin home late Monday, the Times has learned.

According to sources previously close to Barry Braeseke, the 20 - year - old suspect is an electronics "genius" who once took $2,000 in telephone equipment from a phone company where he had worked and set it up in his garage.

A source said Braeseke had boxes of new telephones in his garage, taken from new homes where residents had not yet moved in. He planned to sell them for $5 to $10 each the source said Braeseke told him.

When a man told authorities of the equipment's whereabouts, it was confiscated and returned to the phone company. The company decided not to press charges since the equipment had been returned, the source said.

To prevent further intrusion, young Braeseke then rigged up a sophisticated electronic alarm system in the garage that would ring a loud bell if either door to the garage was opened. That alarm system was still hooked up when sheriff's deputies arrived at the Braeseke home early Tuesday.

The source added that Braeseke had once taken a telephone switchboard worth an estimated $1,000 and installed it in his garage "to tinker with," the source said. It too was confiscated.

The source said Braeseke once discovered that a certain frequency could be dialed on a radio transceiver that would activate a Dublin bank's alarm system. He said Braeseke once described to him in detail a night when he drove to the bank, turned on the radio thus setting off the bank's alarm, and then drove off to a nearby spot and watched as officers arrived at the scene, confused.

Deputies arriving on the scene at the Betlen Drive home early Tuesday lifted more than 31 fingerprints from articles in the family room where the bodies were found. One print had been taken off a spent .22 caliber cartridge found on the floor, but authorities won't say if it matched either suspect.

Investigators found two .22 caliber cartridges and a lead slug thought to have been fired from the murder weapon. The murder weapon is believed to be a .22 caliber rifle belonging to the family and recovered later at an undisclosed location.

Councilman Herlihy fears building plan

PLEASANTON — Approval of a 1.9 million gallon per day size for the sewer pipeline connecting the city's south side to the future expansion of the VCSD sewer plant paves the way for annexation of ranch lands on the south side of town, Councilman William Herlihy charged Monday.

The council voted 4-1 Monday night to approve the 1 9 mgd size. The size will allow construction of 2,821 dwelling units or their equivalents and that's what upset Herlihy.

Ranch lands on the city's south side can't develop now because of the city's lack of sewer connections. If the 2,821 dwelling unit equivalents are built into the connector line from the soon - to - be phased out Sunol Sewer plant to the VCSD plant expansion, the county assessor can put the tax pressure on the ranch lands. The assessor will see the ranch lands as subdivisions and this will hasten their development, Herlihy believes.

City Manager Bill Edgar, who recommended approval of the 1.9 mgd connector line, saw it differently. Some of those 2,021 dwelling unit equivalents (due's) will go for commerce and industry over the 22 year Phase for which the connector line is projected.

And the city still owes Kaiser Research Center some 300,000 gallons per day sewer capacity which it doesn't need yet. Then, too, the city's big sewer contributors like the fairgrounds, cheese factory, and winery might be a little unpredictable and it's good to have some elastic in the pipeline for unforeseen circumstances there, said Edgar.

Herlihy still wasn't convinced. He doubted that there will be much commercial and industrial activity on the city's south side. Nearly all future growth is planned for the north side, unless the city annexes some of those south side ranches, he said.

All five council members rejected the notion of making the pipeline any bigger than 1.9 mgd, primarily because the expansion would be expensive to finance.

The 1.9 mgd pipeline will cost $2,633,000 with the city paying 12.5 per cent of that figure, or $330,000. Any expansion beyond 1.9 million would have to be financed totally by the city, so if the city tried to go to 2.5 mgd to get more industrial capacity, it would cost $1,900,000. In other words, a 79 per cent increase in the capacity would mean a 475 per cent increase in the city's share of the project cost.

The 2.5 mgd figure was the original project design for a city of 75,000, the ultimate holding capacity of the city under the E0 growth rate imposed by the Environmental Protection Agency on sewer funding. Since the project covers only 20 years or so and the city is not expected to have more than 48,000 people then, the 1.9 mgd pipeline is in line with growth projections, said the staff.

Pleasanton Hotel owner dead at 55

Terry D. Hufft, owner of the Pleasanton Hotel for the past 20 years and instrumental in restoring that century - old edifice to its historic image, is dead at the age of 55.

Mr. Hufft was hospitalized at Valley Memorial Hospital Aug. 11 and was stricken with a fatal heart attack yesterday.

He came to Pleasanton in the early 1950's as part of a trio establishing the Nuclear Laundry, a highly - specialized service industry operating on Ray Street in Pleasanton. He was at one time part owner of several downtown parcels, and the Pleasanton Hotel had occupied much of his talent and his energy over the last dozen years in restoring and expanding that popular dining spot.

A native of Oakland, Mr. Hufft was a member of the Merchant Marine in World War II.

He is survived by three daughters, Suzanne Hufft and Lisa Hufft of the family home in Pleasanton and Judy Ingram of Union City and a son, Dale Hufft, of Hawaii. He and his wife had been separated.

Terry Hufft

Funeral arrangements are being handled by Graham - Hitch Services will be private with internment at Memory Gardens Memorial Park in Livermore.

Memorial contributions to the heart fund are requested by the family.

The hotel's operations are being managed by Wanda Pollard, a longtime employee of the popular meeting place.

A Rowell ranch buy postponed

Alameda County Bureau

OAKLAND — Attorneys for the East Bay Regional Park District and local ranchers have postponed for a month their confrontation over the district's purchase of the Rowell Ranch.

The two were set to square off yesterday over a restraining order signed earlier that prevents the district from completing purchase of the 4,236-acre ranch.

But EBRPD attorneys this week surprised the ranchers' lawyer with a 20-page brief in opposition to a temporary restraining order signed earlier this month by a superior court judge.

Pleasanton attorney Alan Grossman, representing neighboring ranchers Julie Wauhab Eckroat, Michael R. Murry, the N3 Cattle Co., Ivan D. Sawyer, J Shearer and the Wauhab Ranch, asked for the month delay to prepare his rebuttal. The two sides will argue the case Sept. 22.

Grossman obtained the initial order on grounds the district failed to file an environmental impact report that takes into account the effects on the area of a public park. The district filed a "negative" declaration claiming there would be no potential problems posed by acquisition of the ranch.

But EBRPD lawyer Deanna D. Lyon says the ranchers' case is moot.

"The park district already has title to the property," she said, and the land will be put into a "land bank." A complete environmental impact report will be made before the district develops the ranch as public parklands, she added.

Delay for a school board successor

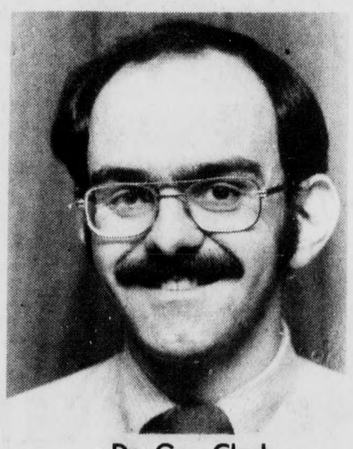
PLEASANTON— The Pleasanton Joint School District Board of Trustees has decided to wait until the March 1977 elections to fill the vacancy created by the resignation this week of Dr. Guy Clark, a four-year member of the board.

Clark is moving his dental practice to suburban Albuquerque, New Mexico in September because of personal and health reasons. His wife, Joanne, as well as Dr. Clark are known to be susceptible to the high pollen count in the valley and the move to the arid Albuquerque is a major factor.

They also are quite active in the Mormon church and had sought a community with an active Mormon group.

Though never an officer of the board, Clark was a spokesman for improved testing procedures in the district, open education and student health. He also had worked with a Boy Scout troop while in Pleasanton.

Clark has sold his practice, with offices in a Santa Rita Road medical center near Alisal School, to Dr. L. Bruce Merrill. The latter has been a resident of the community with offices in Castro Valley.



Dr. Guy Clark

The Clarks' have five children and resided on Tanglewood Way.

Board president Al Dutchover said trustees feel the community should have a significant part in selecting the members of the board, thus the decision to fill the vacancy through the elective process next March.

They will operate as a four-person board until next March. Present members include Dutchover, Betty Nostrand, clerk, Karen Finn and Joseph Schwab.

After hours fishing at Shadow Cliffs

Nighttime poaching fishermen at Shadow Cliffs Regional Recreation Area are giving the East Bay Regional Park District officials a compounded headache on top of their other problems.

"We stock the lake with trout, but people are going in at night without licenses to fish," said Robert Blau, superintendent of operations for the district. "We don't appreciate that because we have a fishing permit program to offset the cost of stocking the lake."

"At this point we haven't cited anybody," Blau told the Times, "but we've issued several warnings."

He said approximately a dozen warnings have been issued in the past few months.

Most of the violations apparently occur over the weekend, according to Blau, who said the district's early Monday morning litter run turns up tackle and other evidence that illegal fishermen have been present.

"We have scheduled a patrol," he said, "but we can't prevent people from entering all the time."

The Arroyo (a body of water on the other side of the lake's dike) is not stocked by the district, said Blau, but "we think people are fishing there also because of the good fishing there." Illegal swimming and dumping in the arroyo were also among problems cited in a recent mid-season report filed by the district's parks and interpretation department.

Also listed as a problem was motorcycle and four - wheel intrusion from the dry creek bed.

On the positive side of the report was a notation that the Tri-Valley YWCA has initiated an overnight camping program at Shadow Cliffs and week-long day camps have been conducted by the Pleasanton - Livermore Girl Scouts. A week-long Water Safety Clinic had also been held, according to the report.

The report also mentioned the likelihood of cancellation of "power boat days" at Del Valle Regional Park, citing "many problems and frustrations encountered in the past."

The September event is still scheduled and will probably be the last after the district's board of directors considers the matter in the near future.

Chris Nelson, chief of parks and interpretation, said Aquatic Rides, Inc., the concessionaire which operates evening campsite programs and ecological boat tours spent $40,000 on new facilities at Del Valle, but is "getting almost no business."

Another problem is the decreasing water level in most of the district's operations.

"The lowest rainfall since 1907 has caused many springs to cease flowing, wells are drying up, and some streams have such a low flow that stagnancy or pollution has occurred or is imminent," according to the report.

"The water level at Del Valle is down 10 feet with only inches of water left at the new boat rental facility," said Nelson. "Maintaining the water level (at Shadow Cliffs) for adequate swimming still remains a problem but, hopefully, possible correction appears possible."

Downtown parks get steady throttle

PLEASANTON — Future plans for the city's only two downtown parks is proceeding both smoothly and slowly with Pleasanton officials waiting for the Southern Pacific Railroad Co. to bring in their plans with "all our ducks in a row," an SP spokesman said yesterday.

"The city would like us to come in with development plans" for the area along First Street southwest of Angela, said Ozzie Osness. But the railway's land development arm still is looking for commercial occupants for "individual sites."

Osness posted "site available" signs yesterday on a vacant parcel between the ice house and the Rose Garden and in the next block near Albers Feed and Grain. The signs sent up a wave of alarm over fears the park lands were being offered for development.

But there's been no change in either side's posture according to both Osness and city manager Bill Edgar.

Edgar said the city plans to retain both Delucchi and Wayside Parks and the Rose Garden, and that any development will be confined to the Albers area or the lot next to the Rose Garden.

Osness said he hopes the signs will draw inquiries so that the SP might put together a package for the city to examine. Detailed negotiations between the two cannot begin until the railway has something concrete to present to city officials.

Osness also denied rumors the city has made offers to trade lands near Hopyard or Santa Rita roads in exchange for preservation of the park lands. No such offer has been made to date, he said, although any lands developed "would have to justify the non-productive, so - to - speak, portions."

Southern Pacific "is getting close with one party," over development of the century old railroad station as a restaurant, he said, adding they "still have a little ways to go to massage the deal into shape." He declined to name the company.

The railroad won title to both parks, the railway station and surrounding parking lot, Rose Garden and the Albers Feed and Grain lands in a court settlement with heirs of the Neal - Harris estates.

The Albers land is zoned for office buildings, while the parklands are zoned as central commercial for small shop development.

The city's general plan, however, shows the lands from Abbie Street northeast to the edge of Wayside Park as future park lands.

Suspect labeled 'genius'

All victims had been shot at close range, deputies said, judging from fresh powder burns found on most of the wounds.

Floyd Braeseke's body was still seated in a chair with his feet on a footstool, authorities said. Mrs. Braeseke was lying on the floor against her father-in-law, her feet still up on the couch where she was apparently reclining immediately before the attack.

The rear sliding glass door was open about 18 inches, authorities said, but the family dog apparently didn't try to enter the house until it saw deputies entering the room.

A neighbor told police that Barry Braeseke knocked on her door and told of the shootings, but she wouldn't open the door because of the late hour. She said he told her to call an ambulance while he ran home to call police.

As he was being taken to a patrol car, Braeseke reportedly asked officers, "who could come in and do such a thing."

Joint transit view?

This is the second of three articles on municipal transit systems in Northern California and their example for similar bus lines in the Livermore - Amador Valley.

Improved municipal transit in the valley could best be handled by petitioning to become a part of the AC Transit District or taking a joint approach to setting-up of a valley - wide network of lines.

Though neither of the aforementioned have been formally considered, valley officials in touch with the transit scene agree these would be the best options.

But public transportation is presently a low priority item in the valley.

Where Livermore, Pleasanton and Dublin are relatively close to the San Francisco - Oakland metropolitan hub, and boast AC Transit, Greyhound and private charter links, communities such as Napa and Modesto must rely on municipal systems to get from outlying areas to regional bus systems such as Greyhound, Continental Trailways.

But the question of intra - valley service and the need for same must still be answered.

All of the systems studied, save perhaps Walnut Creek's, feature lines that serve or come close to every part of the community.

Walnut Creek's system, run by the city and supported heavily by downtown merchants, is tied to the Bay Area Rapid Transit District station— which itself is practically downtown.

Modesto's municipal system gains its revenues from seven sources.

In 1975-76, they had estimated passenger revenues of $117,000; $65,748 unexpended 74-75 Local Transportation Funds claimed for transportation carried forward; $164,400, Urban Mass Transportation (Section 3) grant for purchase of three transit buses (80 per cent of total cost); $80,000, Urban Mass Transportation (Section 5) grant for operating expenses (one-half of operating costs and operating reserve after deduction of passenger revenues); $125,352, 1975-76 claim for transportation (remainder needed for operation and capital expenses in 75-76); $52,000, expected revenue from Stanislaus County. Total is $786,500.

Operating expense for 1975-76 was listed as $431,000, operating reserve $50,000, and capital expense for 1975-76 $305,500 (total cost for three transit buses and five Dial-A-Ride buses).

The Modesto Motor Bus Service schedules six bus routes, four tieing outlying areas to downtown and all operating on half-hour headways. Service is scheduled Monday through Saturday.

San Carlos' municipal lines have been in operation since Dec. 2, 1972. The lines are coordinated with Southern Pacific rail commute service and Greyhound commuter lines along El Camino Real.

Hours of operation are 6 a.m. to 7 p.m. Monday through Friday and 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Saturday.

The system was averaging over 800 customers a day earlier this year, compared to 480 in the spring of 1975.

The bulk of customers are senior citizens, teenagers and low income people.

In Sunday's final article, we'll take a look at municipal systems in Union City and other Bay Area communities.

Hearing for Withers

PLEASANTON — Fire Department Lieutenant George Withers, who was demoted from captain after the Fallon House fire, will have a public hearing on the demotion at 9 a.m. September 1 in the City Council Chambers, 30 W. Angela St.

Withers was demoted on grounds he received a low job performance evaluation for the past year and he bore the chief responsibility for the accidental burn of the Fallon House.

Withers was the top - ranking Pleasanton fire officer on the scene when the Twin Valley Fire Training Academy burned the Fallon House early in the summer.

Steve Stemerman, one of Withers' attorneys, said his basic line of defense will be that Withers had no responsibiliity for the fire and was not the one responsible for procurement of the site.

Ranchers vs. parks

Grossman says the "land bank" status will mean the gradual installation of trails, toilets and public facilities with the ranch effectively open to the public before it becomes a formal park.

He said he may file a taxpayers' suit to block the deal on grounds tax money is being spent to lock public land into a land bank.

BART cuts county tax

Lesher News Bureau

OAKLAND — Bay Area Rapid Transit trimmed its Alameda County tax rate five cents yesterday and hiked the rate by three cents in Contra Costa.

BART directors adopted the figures, boosting Contra Costa's rate to 47.8 cents per $100 assessed valuation. In Alameda, the figure is down to 42.2 cents.

Owner of a $50,000 home in Contra Costa would pay $51.38 in taxes to BART next year.

Harvey Glasser of Alameda took over as BART vice president, replacing Nello Bianco of Richmond. Bianco resigned the post, Bianco will remain on the BART board.

Horse bill dies

Solons deny racing days' jump

A bill that could have added racing dates for tracks throughout California and given the thoroughbred and harness racing industry a three-year, $25 million shot in the arm was struckdown by a state Senate committee Tuesday.

The bill, AB 3131, was authored by Assemblyman Mike Cullen, D-Long Beach. The upper house's finance committee killed the bill by a 7-2 vote shortly after midnight Monday.

An identical bill by Assemblyman Leon Ralph, D-South Gate, pending on the Assembly floor, is considered all but dead, too. It would have to go through the Assembly and Senate before the Aug. 31 end of the legislative session.

Under the legislation amended earlier this month, the public percentage of money waged coming back through parimutuel windows would not be changed.

Additional thoroughbred, quarter horse and harness racing dates would have generated $14.1 million in revenue for the state. But new license fee procedure, based on each day's handle instead of the whole season, would have cut the state's share by $10.5 million.

The figures were based on an Assembly committee analysis of the legislation, which was opposed by Gov. Edmund G. Brown, Jr's finance department.

Ralph estimated horsemen would realize $25 million in profits over the three years before the bill's provisions expire.

Kenneth Ross, a lobbyist for Santa Anita race track in Arcadia said the committee defeated the bill after officials of Los Alamitos rack track (in Orange County) and the Southern California Racing Association at Los Alamitos spoke in opposition.

Ross claimed the bill would amount to a 10 per cent decrease in the percentage of state revenue.

Alameda County Fair Association secretary-manager Lee Hall, along with other Northern California fair managers, had traveled to Sacramento two weeks ago to confer with Assemblywoman Pauline Davis on the race dates issue.

Major tracks in the state have been pushing for additional race dates. Northern California tracks presently have 33 weeks a year. They had requested an increase to 40.

County fair managers were concerned that additional race dates could cause overlapping throughbred racing dates

At the present time, Fair-time racing in Pleasanton has no competition in the Bay Area (during the course of the Fair's run from late June to mid-July). A harness meet, Golden Bear, is scheduled at Cal Expo in Sacramento, though.

Hall was in Sacramento Wednesday to confer with Assemblywoman Davis on the Cullen bill and other county fair matters.

Pleasanton quarry matter

Planner did respond to county

PLEASANTON — Planning Director Robert Harris did indeed respond to Alameda County's query about whether Kaiser Sand and Gravel should be allowed to start mining gravel in a new area prior to approval of a reclamation plan for the valley's gravel pits.

A county planner Wednesday said the county files didn't show any response from Pleasanton when the city was asked for comments on the Environmental Impact Report for Kaiser's request.

It's true there are no written comments on file; Harris responded by telephone to the county, he told The Times yesterday.

Harris's response agreed with the county planning staff's view, namely that Kaiser would mine very little, if any, gravel from the new area prior to submission of the reclamation plan and so the permit request did not seem objectionable.

The new mining would not have an effect on the reclamation plan, said Harris. He acknowledged that he did not refer the item to either the planning commission or the city council. Councilman William Herlihy expressed regret Monday night that the city council had not heard about Kaiser's request for the modification to its quarry permit until long after it was approved by the County Board of Supervisors.

Herlihy told The Times yeseterday that he would like to see all future gravel matters referred to the city council.

"It's incumbent on the staff to keep the council informed of their recommendations," said Herlihy. "It's important that Pleasanton give official input on items of major concern. The gravel permit modification was of major concern."

Livermore to cancel quiet zone stop sign

LIVERMORE — "Blatant disregard" by local drivers will bring about the demise of a stop sign at Guilford and Madison avenues.

Public Works Director Dan Lee told the city council Monday a traffic engineering study revealed there had been no accidents at the intersection which was used by few vehicles.

A stop sign was not needed because of excellent visibility there, said Lee, and that functionally it was a sharp curve rather than an intersection.

Lee told the council that improper stop signs encourage disrespect for them. "If an improperly placed stop sign is being ignored, habits will be established that will affect traffic safety in other parts of the city.

Woman counselor named to high Foothill post

Joan Mackay has been named assistant administrator at Foothill High School, a new position that makes Mrs. Mackay the second - ranking woman administrator in the Amador Valley Joint High School District.

She has been head counselor at Foothill the past three years and will retain some counseling duties during 1976-77. Her specific assignment will be student activities.

Mrs. Mackay taught initially at Amador Valley High School, for one year, then moved to the Fremont School District where she taught at Washington and Irvington High Schools.

Her next three years were spent as a counselor and student activities administrator at Ohlone College in Fremont. Mrs. Mackay returned to the Amador district where she served as a counselor at Dublin High School for three years, before transferring to Foothill.

She joins the administrative team of Richard Carroll, principal, and Clark Thayne and Bob Hill, assistant principals.

Gloria Jones, director of pupil personnel services for the Amador and Pleasanton districts, is the top-ranking woman administrator in either district.

The Pleasanton district must still name teaching vice principals at Harvest Park and Pleasanton School. Carl Krause, assistant superintendent for personnel, said announcements might be ready by the board meating Wednesday.

Pleasanton council action

Planning fees boosted

PLEASANTON — The city council raised planning fees Monday with an eye to having planning applicants pay more of the actual costs of staff time in dealing with the planning process.

The council also considered changing the city ordinance requiring owners of burned out homes to pay a new water connection fee if the home is rebuilt, but postponed action on that.

Two votes were taken on the planning fees. The first raised the cost of filing for a variance from $25 to $50; filing for a general plan amendment from $75 to $250; and getting a conditional use permit from $75 to $150.

The vote on that motion was 3-2 with Council members Joyce LeClaire, Frank Brandes and William Herlihy voting for the hike and Ken Mercer and Robert Philcox against it.

Philcox objected to the motion because he felt $250 was too much money to pay for a general plan amendment. They occur in tandem with a rezoning application, and if the applicant also pays $250 for the rezoning, the total investment of $500 is too much, said Philcox.

The second vote raised appeal fees from $5 to 25 per cent of the fee applicable in the case. For example, on a conditional use permit which costs $50 now, the appeal fee would be 25 per cent of that, or $12.50 The council set a $25 ceiling on appeal fees as part of the motion.

Brandes, Herlihy and Philcox supported the motion, LeClaire and Merrer opposed it. The opponents didn't give their reasons.

On the water connection fee, the council explored the idea of repealing an ordinance which applies to homes which have burned or were otherwise partially destroyed. If the owner tears down the house, he or she has to pay the difference between the current water connection fee and the one which was in effect when the house was built.

There appeared to be enough votes to repeal that ordinance Monday night, but someone brought up the notion that sewer connection fees ought to be studied in that regard, too, so the item was postponed.

In discussing the possibility of changing the rule, LeClaire said that she supported the ordinance when it was enacted by the previous city council. She said that if a homeowner rebuilt the structure, it would be all right to forget about the connection fee, but if the owner tears down the building and replaces it with something else, the fee difference should be charged.

Herlihy said that the property owner had enough hard luck because of a fire or some other catastrophe and the city should not add to his or her woes. Brandes and Philcox agreed with Herlihy.

Concerns unit meet delayed

LIVERMORE — The meeting of the Social Concerns Committee, scheduled for today, has been postponed until September 2.

This committee advises the city planning staff on proposed uses in the planned multi-service center. When the committee meets, preliminary architectural drawings will be presented for review.

Conventions contributed to scouting

The Boy Scouts and the Girl Scouts are singing "God Bless The Republicans!" these days, while the kids keep treking to the bank.

Every time the GOP was inclined to play "God Bless America" at that Kansas City convention, all three networks covering that event had to pay $400 to the estate of Irving Berlin. But Berlin long ago turned over all royalties from "God Bless" and other patriotic songs to the Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts Foundation.

So now, with each broadcast of that blessed tune, the Scouts collect their $400. Variety, the show biz magazine, figures the Kansas City convention alone generated maybe $50,000 in royalties for the Scouts.

The Democrats paid the same royalty for playing "God Bless" at their New York convention, but those Demo incidents were well below the GOP outpouring. Seems like the Republicans kept playing Berlin's rousing tune in order to break up those long, long demonstrations for the Reagan forces.

Can suburbia plan happiness?

Some weeks ago in this space The Times took a long look at all those General Plans ... all that careful studying and precise planning, and then we asked — "But will it make people happy?"

Now we can report a response to that question from a prominent planning official and from a distinguished authority on urban uses, and both, surprisingly, acknowledge "It's time we came up with an answer."

Bill Fraley, as the chief planning authority in Alameda County, has probably had more impact on these unincorporated expanses than any other individual in modern times. His decisions have often been controversial, and always significant.

Now Bill Fraley is ready to acknowledge that "the best plan is of little value if it doesn't relate to people ... not just the ones here now, but those still to come "

That of course is the problem. A "General Plan" adopted, say, in 1972, reflects the will of those who lived here in the late 1960's, but will really impact land - use decisions made in 1974, for buyers who may not occupy that new dwelling until 1976.

Is it any wonder then that the new home owner complains 'No one asked ME about building that thoroughfare through our neighborhood," or the overpass, the ball field, the shopping center.

"How do you make plans today that will meet the needs of people who won't be here for another five years?" Perhaps the entire planning process is archaic, too slow, too scientific but lacking sensitivity. That is the thought a respected San Francisco official shared with us, in his own post mortem on years of guiding that city's development.

"I have been a builder and a developer all of my adult life," he said. "But now I find myself wondering if my profession has been all wrong, if the directions and the emphasis have been out of touch."

Those who buy the homes, adopt the neighborhood, inherit the problems, might at least be encouraged that some planners are aware of their own inadequacies. "Planning is an imperfect art," they say. People are imperfect, too, but when the two are in conflict, then it seems evident we must find a way to make planning adapt to people, rather than bend people around the plan.

FOCUS/Campaign trail

Grinding axes

The "grinding axes" season is officially underway!

It was marked in San Francisco Wednesday by the greyhound racing interests releasing their list of heavyweight backers — a group that'll never be caught horsing-around.

The appearance of George Hardie and the "Go Greyhounds" crowd missed by one day that of Jimmy Carter, whose snake oil and gosPel side show will be back later — in case you missed it.

The campaign din is fast reaching levels of unbearable cacophony.

Wait until the local issues and races get going.

Murphy and Raymond may yet have a better "run" than Broadway's "A Chorus Line."

The Stark and Mori races are strictly "companion features."

But if Hardie has anything to do with it, the local electorate will go to bed each night between now and Nov. 2 dreaming of greyhounds bounding over barriers — quite possibly followed by images of John Murphy and Valerie Raymond — interspersed with nightmare sequences of rising taxes, house payments and food bills.

I guarantee the dreams will fade in the face of such sweat-producing nightmares.

Though we have already given Hardie's greyhound racing scheme a nudge toward oblivion, it is only fair he get a little more ink before the well runs dry.

"The campaign against Prop. 13 is being conducted primarily by California Horse Racing interests and has been smear on smear tactics and a complete evasion of the issues," said Hardie Tuesday.

"They are setting a new standard for sleazy, dirty political tricks in order to protect their monopoly. They have made a great many charges that there is a link between organized crime and greyhound racing, but have not mentioned the name of one single greyhound track operator who has been indicted and convicted of underworld type activities".... note the word "and."

Hardie explained the delay in "making public" the names of financial supporters was to "protect them from the personal harassment and character assassination to which the opposition has subjected me for more than two years."

Presumably, releasing the names on Tuesday gives the "opposition" two less days this week to "assassinate character."

Borrowing a promotional line from a major purveyor of condiments, Hardie cited "13 reasons why" the California electorate should support Prop. 13 on Nov. 2. They include "greyhound racing is fun, it will be more tightly controlled by a state commission than horse racing is today, and Prop. 13 can mean tax relief....more than $45-$75 million every year coming from a tax on greyhound racing for state, county and city governments."

Hardie sees the prospective industry as creating 10,000 permanent new jobs and, among a zillion other glorious features, averaging "$7,000 a year for every public high school to support athletic programs."

The man is beguiling.

No doubt about it.

He can really grind the axe with a pleasing tone. Makes you wonder how a dog racing track right here in Alameda County, yea right in Pleasanton maybe (!) would do.

As postscript, Hardie intones, "If horses can run, why can't dogs?"

Think about it.....

But leave some time for Valerie and John, Jimmy and Gerry.

round the town

Americans are getting broader in the beam.

It's official. One of the Sunday supplements did a study. Measured a cross section of American back sections "Definitely more there," was the conclusion.

An earlier study tells us we have stopped growing taller. For a while it looked as though every boy and girl born in the this land might someday qualify for fat basketball contracts. But we have reached the height limit, the experts tell us.

But the fat beat goes on. Particularly across the stern.

The folks who build bleachers and opera seats find they must allow more room to accommodate the American derriere. Where seven of us used to sit comfortably, now only six can find space.

I am not one of those contributing to the problem. The weight, height, girth I present today are pretty much the same as those offered 20, 30 years ago. You might call it "the perfect American male figure."

"You might say you're impossible to fatten up," the lady of the house editorialized. (She likes to proof read my thoughts.)

"I feed you and feed you, and nothing much ever happens," she observes. It's true. A great deal of foodstuff has been channeled into this body over the years. Particularly in my married state. But the body is pretty much today what it was in that singular era.

"You can be so frustrating sometimes." She is referring to my metabolism. The inability to convert all her good cooking into muscle and bone, even a little fat. But for all her culinary art, her spouse has damned little to show for it.

Lately she has switched her attack To the "fresh fruits and vegetables" kick. She is spaced out on succotash. Zapped on zucchini.

She will disappear of a Saturday afternoon and return — hours later — laden with the fruits (and vegetables) of her plunder.

"They had these lovely string beans at the roadside market in Niles," she announces, proudly, whilst unloading bags and crates.

"Then I stopped off at Sunol and got these lovely strawberries ... the girl gave me this nice crooked neck squash. How about that!"

She positively glows in her triumph. I have never seen any woman get so high over one crooked neck squash.

The world is loaded with squash of every neck size. Sweet and sour. Yellow and otherwise. There are zillions of squash. We've tried 'em all.

"I had never heard of spaghetti squash," she announced, just the other day. "The girl said it cooks up into spaghetti ... you just scrape it out, pour on the meat sauce, and there you are!"

Where we are is a dish that purportedly has all the temptation, but none of the calories, of the starchy spaghetti that comes in a box. Calory counting is not for me. It's for the cook.

"I get so tired of the same thing all the time," is her excuse. "I thought we'd try this spaghetti squash for a change." Translation: "I'm back up to 130 pounds again, and it's off the starches until the beam is ship shape."

To compensate for the loss of calories in the male half of our partnership, she heats up three rolls, to go with our sphaghetti squash and meat sauce delight. Half the meal I am dieting, the other half I am laying it on. The stomach doesn't know whatnhell is going on, or coming down.

The charts say we should consume so much fresh vegetable each week . . portion of golden corn, a fresh tomato or two, string beans for the blood, cucumbers for the kidneys. We get 'em all, in abundance.

The charts says I should be a physical specimen of the first order. The Charles Atlas of Second Street. I am not. Something of a string bean. Hardly a pound difference over 20 years of marital stuffing.

"Cooking for you is like throwing sand on the beach," she says, in a moment of metaphoric madness. But she refuses to give up.

"You should be pleased I am not growing broad of beam, like most other fat American males," I advise her, defensively.

"Then how come you keep complaining about your pants getting suddenly tight around the waist?" she asks. "If you're not gaining weight, then you sure are shifting it around."

Ah yes. A matter of maturation, the doctors advise us. The center of gravity slips in direct proportion to years added It is a medical fact of life.

"I thought I'd try the sphagetti squash with brown sugar tonight, for a change," she announces. It is our third straight meal on the stuff. Help!! I am held captive by the vampire of vitamins. Trapped in the zen of zucchini.

And it's all such a waist.

. . .here's one way

The quest for "What will satisfy the citizens" is one that often frustrates local government. Now it appears the Pleasanton city council might have hit upon a solution.

At least the proposal for a "straw ballot" of the city's populace on the issue of that West Las Positas overcrossing is worthy of consideration. Nor do we find any serious fault with the use of local newspapers as the medium for that poll.

Gaining cooperation of the press was advanced "in order to get the broadest possible response, and to avoid the $2600 that it would cost to mail ballots to every household " The model for such a sampling was one borrowed from The Times, when we were running weekly "Question Boxes" on significant topics, several years ago. While the responses were often small, the results nevertheless seemed to reflect a significant sampling of our readership.

However the city council approaches that West Las Positas overcrossing issue, it is clear the broadest possible response of the citizenry should be included in that decision. Livermore's railroad underpass is a prime example of how a well - intentioned project can quickly go sour when the people feel cut off from that final determination.

There is of course a limit to which local government can go in sampling the popular mood. The best poll, after all, is the one in which all voters might participate when we elect those representatives in the first place. They have the authority, and the mandate, to make a few decisions on their own.

We recall a Pleasanton survey a few years back when a surprising percentage of the people placed 1) A new sewer plant, 2) More parks and 3) that Las Positas crossing in their top priority of community needs Now the city council would like to now if the people want to underwrite that much - needed traffic route, how they would pay for it, and whether it should carry pedestrians, bikes, vehicles or all three.

The people might enjoy participating in that decision. The newspapers would be rendering a real service. The city council would gain some idea as to the popular mood. It's worth a try.

Then there's BART

A classic example of how NOT to get along with the people might be the Bay Area Rapid Transit District. Never has one agency spent so much to serve so few, and confused the hell out of us while they do it.

Now even BART seems ready to acknowledge that its "public relations" leave something to be desired. The district's own sampling indicates "only 30 percent of the people in the Bay Area knows that trains operate at night during the week." But never of course on weekends, or when it rains, or when the legislature changes the ground rules, again.

It is difficult to sell any product when the merchant keeps switching his store hours, and even his location. Right now the hinterlands of Livermore, Pleasanton, Dublin, Brentwood etc are wondering if the AC bus connection we're supposed to be growing accustomed to is going to last beyond the next pay day. It is impossible for any commuter to plan job and transportation around a system that starts and stops service on every political whim.

Even before BART sets up its public relations it should develop a story that it can tell, consistently, honestly, and with the conviction that the schedule of buses and trains offered today might be around for a while.

Letters to the Times

Isabel extension

Editor, The Times:

The Livermore City Council says that the Isabel Extension will cost the Livermore residents nothing. Only the Federal Tax Payer. (?)

Who will have to pay for the maintenance on this city gravel road? Who will have to pay for the expansion of the existing road? Whose policemen will have to patrol this city road? Who will have to pick up litter and spillage on this road? The over-taxed Livermore resident.

Why should we have to pay for this road, not only with our money but with our peace of mind and children's safety?

If Isabel has been planned since 1959, why ha sn't it been built? It couldn't be the money. We've just relocated a railroad with all the trimmings

Isabel must not have been a good idea to start with or it would have been built in 1960 or 1961 or 1962, etc. Why wait 17 years and then build when the area around Isabel is populated?

The county proposed El Charro as a link to I-580, which has been started and now serves two gravel companies. It does not run through a residential area and is inaccessible to small children.

We think the residents of Livermore need and deserve more than a new slab of pavement and higher taxes from the Livermore City Council

Ball park lights

Editor, The Times:

As "A Local Fan" did not have either the courage or integrity to identify his/her self in response to my appeal to LARPD to relocate and/or modify the softball program at the recreation center, I have no choice but to rebut "Local Fan's" remarks in The Times' letter column.

In reply to "Local Fan's" comment that I, not the rec center should move, I wonder if this person lived in an area where certain activities displeased him, would said person move or try to remedy the situation? I doubt if this person would move, all other facets of the neighborhood being acceptable. It appears that this person is more concerned with the possibility of having to drive to see the games rather than walking to them as he/she now does.

I can document that the ball lights have been left on for hours after the last game was played, as I have called the Police on several occasions to have someone turn them off. Is "Local Fan"' aware that the funding to operate these lights comes out of his tax dollar?

On many occasions the games have run well past the 11 p.m. curfew...

"Local Fan" should take a stroll along both sides of 7th St. in the morning hours after a particularly heavy weekend schedule of games. If it weren't for the local residents cleaning up the mess, our neighborhood would look like the local refuse collector had gone on strike. Perhaps "Local Fan" doesn't mind living in trash, but I do.

As for the sanitary conditions, I agree that there are rest rooms in the Rec Center, but on some occasions the doors are locked during late hours and during heavy tournament play some fans choose to use a vacant lot for a rest room...

I must agree with "Local Fan" that another ball park is needed to resolve some of the burden ..

Editor, The Times:

On behalf of the Pleasanton Swim Team I want to thank you for your support and publicity you gave us — not just our Aquathon but starting last December.

We have grown from 70 to 170 in that time! We hope to double that, and with continued support we just may be another Santa Clara.

You have given us all the enthusiasm and strong beliefs that comes when some one believes in you.

Adult TV

The dog growled with a flash of teeth when our Showtime representative knocked. For safety's sake, she was deposited outside. Looking back, however, it may have been better if she'd chomped on the nice man's leg.

Showtime, if you haven't been afforded your free home demonstration yet, is the living room box office package offered by Televue, the cable TV people in Pleasanton and Dublin. For a $20 installation fee (it goes up to $30 when the introductory offer expires) plus $10 per month, you can see recent motion pictures in your home, without commercial interruptions and without any Bicentennial Minutes.

You can also bicker with the wife when "Straw Dogs" is showing opposite the Reds and Phillies. Showtime will achieve instant popularity for you and your family. People will drop by often to see a feature they missed at the show. They'll stay late for the rerun, and eat your food, and drink your booze.

Showtime offers 14 different presentations every month, two you'll like, 12 that will captivate everyone else in the neighborhood.

Showtime Enertainment Inc. headquarters in New York City. Its corporate deity controls Televue, said our representative. Showtime has selected the Dublin-Pleasanton market as a test for national expansion of its home box office.

The Bay Area has already experimented with pay TV for movies. But, according to our representative, it has flopped, for reasons he proceeded to gloss over. Showtime, we were assured, has learned from the mistakes of others.

Field reps are conducting a saturation campaign right now, perhaps in your neighborhood. They are enjoying a 60 per cent success rate with their sales pitch. If the wife enjoys movies, you might as well get out the check book.

Our representative appeared at 6 p.m. on a Friday. He hooked up the Showtime mystery box to our color portable. With a punch of a button we watched a heart warming moment from "Magnum Force," starring Clint Eastwood as Dirty Harry Callahan.

Dirty Harry was no where to be seen in the opening glimpses. Instead, a pimp was pouring Draino down the gullet of a hooker. It was nice, but we weren't sold until a motorcycle cop bazookaed a naked man and woman frolicking in a penthouse waterbed.

Convinced that Showtime stood for sophisticated drama, we forked over the $20. Since then we've seen Mel Brooks' "Young Frankstein," and "Drowning Pool," with Paul Neuman.

The picture is sharp and clear, the sound far from the booming bass of a motion picture theatre. But then nobody's spilling popcorn down your shirt at home, either.

Showtime presents 11 recent motion pictures every month. It also presents one movie "classic." In honor of the Republican Convention, August's epic was "Code of the Secret Service," starring Ronald Reagan.

We missed that one. From what we could discern, however, it's about a bunch of campaign managers urged to leap from the roof of Kemper Arena.

There are also two entertainment specials every month. We caught portions of David Steinberg, appearing at the New York Playboy Club. David was a bore, but he said sh-- and f--- and confirmed our suspicions about cultured entertainment .

The Showtime rep explained that David can say sh-- and f--on our TV screen because it is a closed circuit telecast, and therefore, not regulated by the FCC.

In otherwords, you could see the funny version of "Last Detail," and not the vanilla flavored copy screened by ABC.

Showtime sends a schedule of coming attractions at the beginning of each month. It is attached to the Televue bill.

We are eagerly awaiting September. Showtime will screen "Day of the Locust," "Hearts of the West, and "Return of the Pink Panther," among others.

We will be on vacation out of the country, leaving our 19 inch screen to all those mooching friends and relatives. That's why we're eager.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

In looking over our collection of hands we find one from the Bridge World of May, 1940. It is from an article by J. C. Stablein entitled, "Precaution."

The author does not give the bidding or the East-West hands, but comments that they probably used precaution in only getting to five spades.

The queen of diamonds is opened and South ducks in dummy. The precaution was necessary to guard against finding West with all six diamonds.

We have taken the liberty of making up our own East-West hands. We put the same cautious declarer in the South seat. He ducks the first diamond and now look what happens to him.

West continues with the deuce of diamonds. East ruffs that lead. He had started with exactly one diamond. Then East leads a club. West ruffs and South's safety play has become an unsafety play.

Ask the Jacobys

A Vermont reader wants to know what we bid with: ♠ x x ♥ x x x x ♦ A K x x ♣ A K x after our right-hand opponents opens one heart?

This is an easy one. We pass irrespective of vulnerability. This may turn out to be losing action, but a double or a two-diamond overcall may land us in really bad trouble. Remember that the fact that a hand is worth an opening bid does not mean that it is worth an overcall.

(Do you have a question for the experts? Write "Ask the Jacobys" care of this newspaper. The Jacobys will answer individual questions if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are enclosed. The most interesting questions will be used in this column and will receive copies of JACOBY MODERN.)

Perry HR tops Cobras, 2-1

SAN LEANDRO — A slightly biased scorekeeper would rule it a home run. The official scorekeeper would rack his brains out trying to decide.

But to Wayne Perry and the Livermore Merchants, it only means a trip to Hamilton, Ohio.

Perry walloped a towering fly ball that nipped the left - fielder's glove and fell to the turf with one out in the bottom of the ninth inning last night and scored all the way on the play, as the Merchants nipped Hayward's Galli's Cobras, 2-1, to advance to the National "A" fast - pitch championships next week in Hamilton.

Livermore will represent the Oakland Metro Association in the tourney, after last night winning the Metro tournament held at San Leandro's Thrasher Park. The Merchants sailed through the tournament without getting beaten.

Perry's hit came suddenly and unexpectedly, as the Merchants had moments earlier that tied the game in the bottom of the seventh after trailing 1-0 since the first stanza.

The ball was just five feet from clearing the fence at Thrasher Park. Cobra left - fielder Don Hampton raced backwards at the crack of the bat and appeared ready to catch the ball. But Hampton never put his glove up in time after a long run, and Perry started racing around the bags with one thing in mind: get home.

"I was going all the way," said a mobbed Perry afterwards. "While I was running I could see the guy (dropping the ball) out of the corner of my eye."

Merchants' coach Hampton had caught the ball. "I thought he had it," he said softly.

"I can't single out one player," he continued. Whenever you called for someone on the bench they were ready. I've been in organized softball 18 years now, and I've never experienced a national's. It's just fantastic."

The game began on a sour note for the winners, as the sky - high Cobras pushed across a run in the first inning on Gil Cravollo's double and a two - out single by Jay Needles.

For the next six innings, it was a duel between the two hurlers: Hal Skinner, the tall Cobra with a fine mixture of off - speed pitches, and Dick Roberts, Livermore's fireballing right - hander who fanned 13 batters on the night, in seven innings.

Both hurlers worked their way out of continuous jams. In fact, the Cobras had runners on the bags in every inning but the second and fourth. And in every one of those innings a man reached second base.

The Merchants left a total of only four men on base in the first six innings, while the Cobras were much more unlucky, stranding eight runners.

It was almost over for the winners in the seventh inning, where they rallied for their first run. Gary Constable's walk and Perry's single put men on first and second with one out. After pinch - hitter Jack Barrow fanned, George Schaak walked to load the bases John Bonham. the leadoff man, then sent a high chopper to shortstop and beat it out, a run scoring. Perry was thrown out at the plate on the play tring to score from second on the chopper, and ending the inning.

The Merchants play again tonight, this time in the finals of the LSA tournament against Granucci's at the Rec Center at 8 p.m. They also play in the Regionals at Thrasher Park Saturday at 2:30 p.m., yet another stepping - stone tourney towards Hamilton.

Bill Corbett's obvious intensity (left) paid off with a 3-and-1 win over Rick Knoll, who winces in the heat yesterday, in the finals of the Junior Golf Association of Nothern California championships at Castlewood Country Club. Corbett, of San Rafael, reached the finals with a 6-and-5 morning win over Eric Morse while Knoll topped San Francisco's Kurt Posey by the same score.

Both medalists came out winners as Linda Bowman took the girls title with a 4-and-3 triumph over Maureen Galligan.

Ace Hardware had 15 hits in its 10-6 victory over Fil Am. Steve Davis scored twice and had one hit for the winners. George Bakel led Fil Am with two hits.

San Ramon gridders scrimmage tomorrow

San Ramon High football fans will have a chance to view first year coach Lyle Setencich's club up close and personal tomorrow afternoon.

The Wolves hope to entertain a sizeable gathering taking in the team's First Annual "Green and Gold" scrimmage, beginning at 4:30 on the newly resodded football surface. It's open to the public.

A western style barbecue will immediately follow, reports the school booster club, and promises to supply plenty of ice - cold soda.

"We're certainly going to have some fun," noted Setencich, who moves over from Albany High. "I think it'll give the parents and public a great opportunity to see what we've been doing out here. But, at the same time it's also going to tell me a lot about the team.

"I'm going to try and make it just as even as I can, see that everyone plays, then look to see who wins," he continued. "What we're looking for is talent. For a lot, this just might be the opportunity they've been looking for. It'll give them a chance to really prove themselves."

Setencich plans to film the contest from the press box, watch home movies of the action over the weekend and come away with a better understanding of where his club stands.

But the youthful coach is sure of one thing even before the season opening kick-off, Sept. 10 with Harry Ells.

"I think we have some good athletes, but I don't think we have much depth," he noted "Depth could really hurt us in this type of league. Amador and some of the other schools are pretty tough.

"Where they may have eight defensive tackles we may only have four. If we get just one sick or injured, it's going to hurt us more."

While depth may be lacking, morale certainly isn't. The Wolves are showing reborn enthusiasm under the new field general and Setencich is hopeful it'll continue.

"The kids are working pretty hard and showing a lot of spirit," said the coach, "and that's a good sign. Yet, it's pretty early. Later in the week I'll be able to tell you better. I'm happy with the progress we've made, but then we've only started.

Conditioning is another area that Setencich noticed during opening drills on Monday. But, he says it's no fault of anyone in particular. He likes to blame it on the circumstances.

"Our conditioning is poor," he said, "because of the transition of a new coaching staff. I know the players, but not as well as I'd like. And the new assistant coaches that just came in hardly know them at all. If you had one staff working them from one year to the next, you'd get the kids in shape. It's going to take a while."

Setencich is not so much concerned with winning as he is with "trying to pull the team together this year," he says.

Setencich has added two new members to his coaching staff including defensive coach Joe Vanni from Bishop O'Dowd and Oregon, along with Bob Fisher, who worked with wide receivers and defensive ends at Albany last year.

Cal mentor optimistic

Mike McGinnis, 30 - year - old Danville resident and head football coach at California High School, spoke with enthusiasm and optimism over his youthful club going through the rigors this week.

"I have no extended plans," offered McGinnis, "but to build a good football program at California. We are a young club and I don't expect to build a winner overnight."

McGinnis was selected as head coach out of last years staff of seven coaches. Five had been with Cal for one year, including McGinnis "I feel fortunate to have been in the right place at the right time," he said of the head coaching spot vacated by Dick Nodlinski.

McGinnis believes his staff as a whole works well together. The new coach has only five years of coaching behind him, but combined, his assistants show some 30 to 40 years experience. "The potential is here," commented McGinnis, "and with confidence we can build a winner."

The Grizzly mentor sizes up the powerful East Bay Athletic League as "tough," but looks forward to playing competitively. The Grizzlies have more numbers than last year and appear in better and overall shape.

"Our main goal this year," explained McGinnis, "is to show improvement every week. The desire and enthusiasm is there and I don't want the kids to lose that."

Cal is working heavily on offensive techniques before turning to defense next week. The Grizzlies are holding workouts twice a day beginning at 8:45 a.m.

Seniors Tom Woodmansee and Tyler Laurie are vying for the top quarterback spot. Woodmansee started over center last fall Running back Willie Huff, who has a 9.9 100 yard dash to his credit should provide Cal with a solid backfield.

Assisting McGinnis are Tom Zezklin, offensive coach, and Dennis Regalado, defensive line and backs.

Cal will get its first test against Tamalpais in a scrimmage, Sept 4 in Marin.

Cal travels to Benicia for its season opener on Sept. 11. They play three preseason contests before EBAL play.

Cabbage is 76.7 gallons

By EARL ARONSON
AP Newsfeatures

You have a pretty good idea of how long it will take you to do a job and how much money it costs.

Now Cornell University is telling New York staters how much energy is needed for agricultural production.

What good is this information? It will be helpful in developing accurate fuel allocation programs.

The scientists made a series of estimates of the fuel and electricity requirements for field crops, vegetables, fruit crops, livestock operations and other enterprises.

For instance:

Required to produce an acre of cabbage is 76.7 gallons of gasoline and diesel fuel; 61.6 gallons for an acre of onions; 5,113 for potatoes; 34.2, sweet corn; 29.2, snapbeans; 20.7, dry beans; 9, corn for grain; 44.4, apples; and 39.5, grapes.

Translated to propane gas and electricity, corn for grain required 22.1 gallons of propane gas and 56 kilowatts hours of electricity.

Greenhouse and nursery operations used 1,672.350 gallons of gasoline and all agricultural aircraft, engaged in applying chemicals, used 225,400 gallons of gas.

Maple syrup productions required 36 million cubic feet of natural gas and 840,000 gallons of heating oil — plus great quantities of firewood.

And honey production, involving 160,000 colonies of bees, used 36,430 gallons of gasoline. Gasoline use on the farm was highest in July with 11 per cent, followed in June with 10.8; August, 10.4; and September, 10.1. Use of diesel fuel showed a similar pattern but propane gas usage was higher from October through January than in other months.

The amount of gasoline needed for family living per farm is expected to exceed 800 gallons per year. And nationally, farm production requires about eight billion gallons of fuel, representing about 3 per cent of the nation's total fuel needs.

To put this into perspective, food production requires only about 10 per cent of the fuel used by passenger cars and trucks on the highways, according to the team of researchers.

DECLARATION PROJECT
DESIGNATION:
Z-76-162
August 27, 1976

In accordance with the provisions set forth in the Environmental Impact Guidelines and Procedures, design review application Z-76-162 has been determined not to require an EIR but rather the filing of a negative declaration.

The project consists of the construction of two-story building on the west side of First Street about midway between Ray Street and the Arroyo del Valle. The building is proposed to be approximately 3,900 square feet and is designed for retail commercial service uses. Off-street parking, driveways, sidewalk, and landscaping would be provided.

The site, presently vacant and bounded on the west by the Southern Pacific Railroad, on the south by a service station, and on the east by First Street, occupies a depression between First Street and the railroad. The two-story building will appear as a single story building from the south. The site has no known physical limitations to development. Ingress and egress would be via driveways located at the north and south ends of the site directly onto First Street. Through traffic is controlled on First Street with stop lights on Vineyard Avenue and Stanley Boulevard, and two closest intersections to the site; these traffic controls should allow trouble-free access to the property. The building design as proposed is a mansard roof-type structure of a size and design compatible with neighboring structures and is subject to design review. It is the finding of the City Manager that this project would not create, to a significant degree, any of the effects enumerated in the Environmental Impact Guidelines and Procedures which indicate that the environment may be harmed.

For more information on this case, contact the Department of Community Development, 200 Bernal Avenue, Pleasanton, California 94566, telephone 846-3202.

Unless any written appeals of this case are received by this department within ten (10) days of the above date or publication of this notice in the Pleasanton Times, whichever is later, this decision will become effective.

PROJECT DESIGNATION:
RZ-76-9
August 27, 1976

In accordance with the provisions of the Environmental Impact Guidelines and Procedures, rezoning application RZ-76-9 has been determined not to require an EIR but rather a negative declaration.

The project consists of amending Section 2-7.08(a) of Article 8, Chapter 2, Title II of the Ordinance Code of the City of Pleasanton to allow full service, automatic automobile washing as a conditional use in the C-C (Central Commercial) District. Such uses are not presently allowed in the C-C District.

Amending the code to allow such an essentially drive-in, service oriented use in the C-C District has the potential to introduce a noisy, vehicular oriented use in a district designed for compact, intensive retail stores and shops. Such a use could be incompatible with residential uses permitted in the C-C District and adjoining this district. Such a use would be unlikely to further the planned creation of off-street parking facilities and would be incompatible with the planned pedestrian shopping area that the C-C District was designed to be. However, the conditional use permit procedure could mitigate many of the above objections, and it is the finding of the City Manager that this zoning code amendment would not create, to a significant degree, any of the effects enumerated in the Environmental Impact Guidelines and Procedures which indicate that the environment may be harmed.

For more information on this case, contact the Department of Community Development, 200 Bernal Avenue, Pleasanton, California 94566, telephone 846-3202.

RZ-76-10
August 27, 1976

In accordance with the provisions of the Environmental Impact Guidelines and Procedures, rezoning application RZ-76-10 has been determined not to require an EIR but rather a negative declaration.

The project consists of rezoning the four acre Mormon Church site located on the southwest corner of Valley Avenue and Paseo Santa Cruz and three adjacent lots to reflect the development which has taken place upon those lots. The church site would be rezoned from multiple residential and single family residential districts to a public and institutional district. The adjoining three lots, at 6206 Paseo Santa Cruz and 6302 and 6324 Calle Altamira would be rezoned from a multiple residential district to a single family residential district consistent with the single family residential development existing on the lots.

The area subject to this rezoning is fully developed with uses consistent with the proposed rezoning. Upon enactment of this rezoning, no further development would be able to take place except possible expansion of church facilities. The latter expansion would be subject to a conditional use permit and further environmental assessment. It is the finding of the City Manager that this rezoning would not create, to a significant degree, any of the effects enumerated in the Environmental Impact Guidelines and Procedures which indicate that the environment may be harmed.

RZ-76-12
August 27, 1976

In accordance with the provisions set forth in the Environmental Impact Guidelines and Procedures, rezoning application RZ-76-12 has been determined not to require an EIR but rather a negative declaration.

The project consists of placing the following properties into the S (Study) District until the properties have been subjected to planning studies and appropriate rezoning action is taken. The properties are currently in an emergency study district and are listed by Assessor's Parcel numbers:

946-3570-1-2;
946-2528-6;
946-2528-7-1, 7-2, 7-3, and 7-4;
946-2577-5-14;
946-3215-2-2;
941-800-3-2;
946-3930-3-6, 3-7, and 5-3;
946-3947-2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, and 11;
94-127-29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34-1, 34-2, 35, 36-1, 38-1, 39-1, 40-6, 40-7, 40-4, 40-10, 14-1, 40-17, 40-20, 40-9, 50-2, 55-4, and 55-8; and 946-2577-5-4.

Properties placed in a Study District have severely restricted development possibilities. In essense, the property is frozen in its current state until planning studies are concluded and approximate zoning is placed on the property. The S District can last a maximum of one year. Since virtually no development is allowed on these parcels of land while they are in the Study District, no change in the environment would result from this action. It is the finding of the City Manager that this rezoning would not create, to a significant degree, any of the effects enumerated in the Environmental Impact Guidelines and Procedures which indicate that the environment may be harmed.
